

WARNING

This material contains information affecting the National Defense of the United States within the meaning of the espionage laws, Title 18, USC, Sees. 793 and 794, the transmission or revelation of which in any manner to an unauthorized person is prohibited by law.

FOREWORD

- 1. This guide is designed primarily for debriefing Cuban escapees and for advance briefing and debriefing of visitors to Cuba. However, it also provides a systematic statement of information needs which can be used as the basis for collection planning, collection action, and responsive reporting.
- 2. Although the guide provides mostly general guidance for initial and supplementary interviews, the need at this time for detailed information cannot be overemphasized. When a source with unusual knowledgeability becomes available, a request should be made for detailed guidance and questions. Accuracy and detail in describing source's knowledgeability will considerably facilitate Headquarters response. In the conduct of interviews, interrogators should be alert for leads to other developing information opportunities, e.g., advance notice of travel to and from Cuba. Pertinent biographic detail should be developed to the fullest extent possible. In addition, special attention should be given to screening photographs for those of intelligence interest.
- 3. Interrogators should pay particular attention to the Watch List, which indicates those particular occupations, organizations, and geographic areas of priority interest. Until further notice, information on sources with unusual knowledgeability relevant to any of these Watch List items should be sent to Headquarters immediately so that detailed guidance can be provided for exploitation of the source in depth. The Watch List has been expanded and rearranged and further revisions will be made in the future.
- 4. The overall security classification of this revised issue of the guide is SECRET. The questionnaires to be filled out by the sources are unclassified but are controlled For Official Use Only. In future revisions, further efforts will be made to reduce the classification and controls of individual sections, topics, and questions in order to facilitate use by the interrogator.
- 5. The additions in this re-issuance reflect the increased research effort being devoted to Cuba. In the future, the guide will be revised to meet changing information needs. Revised pages for insertion into the guide will be dated with the month and year of their publication.
- 6. Two of the Debriefing Aids (Consumer Welfare Questionnaire and Foreign Radio Broadcast Questionnaire) are to be filled out by each source and forwarded to Headquarters. An initial supply has been made available.

- 7. In this revised edition, a new numbering system has been adopted which numbers questions consecutively within each Section of the guide. In addition to the guide reference number C-RR2 60251, detailed information responses where appropriate should reference by number the relevant questions in the guide.
- 8. Comments and suggestions to improve the format, content or arrangement of this guide are earnestly solicited. Please note them on the tear-out page provided in the back of the guide and forward to Headquarters.

WATCH LIST (3/62)

This Watch List contains selected occupations, organizations and geographic area in which there is a continuing and high priority interest. This List will be revised in light of responsive reporting and changing information needs. Headquarters should be notified promptly when sources knowledgeable on Watch List items become available so that detailed requirements can be provided for exploitation in depth.

- 1125 Are the religious invited to official ceremonies and to private parties? If so, who in the community evidences invitations?

Religion (Continued)

1126 Do the religious of the main city have contact with religious in other areas of the island?

Education

1127 Report information about policies and activities of the Castro regime regarding the educational system and how it is affected by the regime. To what extent is there any real change in literacy? Has Castro's educational program done more than teach people to write their names? Is it a continuing program; are people actively trying to learn?

1128 Does source know of any new scientific or technical colleges or universities that have been or are being set up? What are their specialities? Describe; give date of observation and locations.

1129 Who are the major school administrators and teachers? Give a complete estimate of each as to:

- a. Intellect
- b. Political leanings pro or anti-Castro
- c. Influence on students
- d. Associations and persons who control each
- e. Outside activities

1130 Where do the school administrators and teachers live? To whom are they related?

1131 How is Communist policy interjected into the educational system?

1132 What students have been sent to the Sino-Soviet Bloc countries for technical training?

Education (Continued)

- a. How was the student selection made?
- b. How have the parents and teachers responded to this program?
- c. Do students in foreign schools correspond with teachers, parents, friends?
 - d. How is the program financed?
- e. Have any of these students returned from foreign study?

1133 University

- a. Have the top administrative officials of the university been replaced?
- b. Who are the most popular professors and what are their political leanings?
- c. Are Soviet-Satellite professors or technicians being employed at the university?
 - d. Has there been a shift of emphasis in the curriculum?
 - e. How many foreign students are now at the university?
- f. Are the foreign students active in Communist affairs? Who are these students and from what countries?
 - g. Which professors in the university are anti-Castro?
- h. Is there any sign of anti-Castro feeling among the students?
 - i. Who are the student Communist leaders?

Sociological (Continued)

1134 Secondary Schools

- a. Are there regular indoctrination courses in the schools?
 - b. Are there Bloc "advisers" in the school system?
 - c. How popular is Castro in this age group?
 - d. What is the textbook situation?
 - e. Are students selected for foreign study?
 - f. Are the instructors discontented with the regime?
- g. In other than in the Communist indoctrination courses, how are the academic standards?

1135 Primary Schools

- a. What is the teacher reaction to the Communist program?
 - b. What is parent reaction?
 - c. Are children selected for foreign study?
 - d. Has the informer system permeated the primary grades?
 - e. Who are the leaders among the teachers?

1136 Adult Education

- a. What are the main efforts in adult education?
- b. What percentage of Bloc personnel are used as instructors?
 - c. How popular is the adult education program?
 - d. What percentage of time is spent on indoctrination?
 - e. Who are the leaders of the adult education program?

- b. What are the subjects being emphasized in the trade school?
 - c. What percentage of instructors are from the Bloc?

News Media

- 1138 Who is the editor of the local newspaper?
 - a. With whom does he associate?
 - b. Who seems to have the greatest influence over him?
- 1139 Who are the outstanding newspaper reporters? Are they Communist or non-Communist?
- 1140 What is the reaction to the propaganda on yankee imperialism on your friends?
 - 1141 What are the types of public information most used?

Psychological

1142 To what extent (if any) did a stratified class structure pave the way for Castro? Are the racially mixed, (formerly) lower-income groups enjoying things of life which were previously symbolic of social rank and prestige? What specific aspects of life are of social rank and prestige? What specific aspects of life are being used by Castro followers or the people in general, as symbols of social emancipation? Do Castro followers use these symbols to remind the common people of their former status? Which specific symbols are most frequently exploited in this fashion?

1143 Has there been much change in the amount and types of corruption evident? What kind of change (cite specific examples)? If so, are the people (all classes) happy with the new life? What specific aspects of Cuba's pre-Castro life are most missed today?

1144 To what extent (if any) do Castro followers appeal to the racially mixed or negroes by associating the traditional, whiter, class with graft, corruption, and exploitation? Provide specific examples.

1145 Do certain classes or types of persons believe more US news than others? What subjects in the general news and features output coming from the US are more (or less) credible, if any?

1146 Who has heard Voice of America broadcasts (provide number of persons known to have done so and where)? To what extent are Voice of America broadcasts regarded as factual, trustworthy information? To what extent mere propaganda? Provide specific examples.

II. Militar

2000 MILITARY

There is continuing interest in various aspects of Cuba's military establishment, especially changes in manpower, organization, leadership, troop reliability, disposition, and general proficiency with weapons and equipment in hand. Also - additions of any kind of missiles, missile or rocket delivery methods, and associated support facilities. Particular lines for inquiry follow.

General

Information is needed on ground forces military units and paramilitary units (including Army, Militia, National Police, and Rural Police). Report indications as available on the following subjects; state whether source's information is based on observation, from service in a unit, or hearsay:

- 2001 Type, location, strength, and organization of unit(s); what is the mission of the unit(s): security; defense; training?
- 2002 Designation and subordination of units. Uniforms, weapons and insignia.
 - 2003 Names, ranks, and personality traits of officers in charge.
- 2004 Give names and biographic data on all G-2 officers, agents and informers. What are their methods of operation? Location of head-quarters, sections, and subsections.
- 2005 Give names of any military personalities who may possibly be induced to defect or provide information.
- 2006 Types of training activities and exercises engaged in by unit(s). Date of information.
- 2007 Movements of unit(s): Where to where? When? Mode of transportation? For special activity or permanent relocation?
- 2008 Types, quantities, and condition of vehicles and equipment identified with unit(s). (Any descriptive information including sketches indicating source, model, and extent of use; identifying symbols and markings.)
- 2009 Nature and level of troop instruction and training. Degree of emphasis on political indoctrination. Describe indoctrination methods.

General (Continued)

- 2010 Location, description, facilities, and enrollment at military schools. Type and length of course of study.
- 2011 Data on the teaching staffs at military schools: Names, ranks, nationalities, and any special qualifications of individual staff members.
- 2012 Number, nationalities, names, and ranks of foreign nationals enrolled in military schools, undergoing indoctrination and/or other type training in Cuba. If possible, specify the nature of their training and the date of expected completion. Any special treatment accorded these students?
- 2013 What are the present means of military communications in various areas? How is written correspondence handled? Describe the efficiency of telephone, teletype, short-wave radio, and microwave, including the following details on each:
- a. Where are the administrative and operational offices located for each of the above listed type of communications?
- b. Identify as many persons employed at these installations as possible, including superiors. In addition to those identified, give an estimate of total number personnel employed.
- c. Identify type and quantity of various equipment (i.e. type of teletype machines, radio transmitters and receivers, as well as maintenance equipment types and number of vehicles, etc.).
- d. Identify and explain the operation of VHF mobile units, how they are employed in field operations, how many men employed in operation, how activities are coordinated with combat or patrol units in the vicinity, identification of persons involved, and chain of command.
- e. Give operational frequencies of field communications units (including air/ground) as well as permanent VHF and microwave installations.
- 2014 To what extent are the militia being integrated into the regular Army? Which superior officer would take command

2015 What is the actual function of the "forestry battalions"?

2016 How many militiamen or military units are assigned to coastal observations? How do they report? How are they transported? By what means and frequency? Give as many specific details as possible concerning location of this type unit, both on the mainland and on the offshore islands.

2017 Do the fishing cooperatives assist in coastal observation by reporting unusual activity? How do they report? Through what channels are these reports passed? Give examples of how a report would be passed along to the Headquarters of Oriente that a boat was seen flashing a light and was answered by a light from the shore. How would a 2-10 man observation post report this? What communications equipment is available and would be used? To what local unit would this be reported? To whom and by what means would this recipient forward this report? To what other units would this report be passed, what action would be taken, and how would coordination be effected to dispatch personnel to the area? What commanding officers and respective units (by battalion, division, or squad number and location) would be involved in the reporting and subsequent operational activity?

2018 Identify type and quantity of coastal defenses, both active (weapons emplacements, coastal defense guns etc.) and passive (mine fields, barbed wire, A.T. ditches, etc.)

2019 How are military districts divided into areas of responsibility for the Army, Militia, the G-2, and PNR (Policia Nacional Rural)?

2020 Report any indications of military preparations or movements possibly related to anti-insurgent activity.

2021 Describe any documents required, i.e., passes for military personnel, ration cards, passes for specific areas. G-2 ID cards, etc. Furnish copies if available. Who normally issues and signs these documents? How often must they be renewed?

2022 What patrolling or security activity is normally in effect in towns, in and around military installations, along roads, at major bridges? What branch of service, number of guards, how armed?

- 2023 Location and description of sites where unusually strict security measures are in force. Describe these measures.
- 2024 What are the mobilization plans for the Cuban army and militia in cities, military districts?
- 2025 What quantities of military supplies are maintained by companies, battalions and divisions? What is the system for requesting additional supplies?
- 2026 Information on foreign military or militarytechnical consultants at military installations. Number. Nationality. Activity. Date of appearance in Cuba. (See also Section 3000, paras 3099-3137... Economic.)
- 2027 Types and number of military personnel being trained in Soviet Bloc countries. Type and length of training.
- 2028 Any indications of guerrilla units being trained for action outside Cuba? If so, nationality, strength, plans, timing.
- 2029 Indications on officer morale; troop morale. For example, any volume of AWOL's and desertions.
- 2030 Differences in pay scales and allowances between the various military and paramilitary forces.
- 2031 Attitudes of officers and troops toward present regime. Proportions of original Castro supporters, PSP members, ORI members. Proportions of new recruits. Breakdown of these proportions by unit.
- 2032 Number, use, and disposition of military labor battalions.
- 2033 Call-ups, inductions, and releases: Any changes in draft or recruiting procedures in recent months? Present procedures used. Personnel ceilings mentioned. Term of military service at present. Any changes in policy toward releases. Reserve status, if any, for released members.
- 2034 Location, size, and description of military camps and training areas.

2035 Transportation and communication facilities serving military areas: any new construction? Type and status. (See also Section 3000, paras 3099-3137).

Guided Missiles

- . 2036 There have been many rumors and low grade reports of missile activity in Cuba. In view of present and potential conditions in Cuba, there is a continuing requirement for information or indications of plans to procure missiles or of military assistance agreements between the Soviet Bloc and Cuba for supplying short range, intermediate range or air-to-surface missiles.
- 2037 Does source know of any new or unusual laboratories, plants, or restricted field sites, such as missile test or launch facilities? If under construction, how far has work gone? Describe; give date, locations, quantities, and originating country.
- 2038 Any construction of missile sites, evidence of mobile missile launchers, or characteristics and combat readiness of missiles would be of priority interest.
- 2039 Any training of Cuban military forces in handling missiles? Any information on presence of Bloc missile experts.

Installations and Equipment

- 2040 Description of any new naval, army, or air bases, or any unusual weapons or military equipment that may have been supplied by the Sino-Soviet Bloc. Date of observation, locations, quantities, and originating country. Detailed description and/or sketch of equipment, indicating e.g., approximate dimensions, estimated caliber of weapons, number of wheels per vehicle, size and shape of antennas, etc.
- 2041 Descriptions of any unusual aircraft, ships, or vehicle seen or reported. Date of information, locations, quantities, and originating countries.
- 2042 Descriptions of any new or unusual instruments that may have come from the Sino-Soviet Bloc. Date of information, quantities, and originating country.
- 2043 Detailed information regarding location, staffing mission, and operations of local investigative officers, formerly G-2 MINAR, with particular emphasis on identification of the organizations to which the office belongs at present.

2044 Information on any schools utilized in the training of Cuban or foreign intelligence and security personnel, including descriptions of staff and curriculum.

2045 Information on use of technical methods of operations (e.g., sound equipment, polygraph examinations, codes and ciphers) by Cuban intelligence and security organizations, including military intelligence organizations.

2046 Information on military medical facilities, resources, and public support facilities.

Shipments of Bloc Arms

2047 The status, direction, and nature of Soviet Bloc arms shipments is a major intelligence problem. Detailed information will help to determine the strength or weakness of the military establishment of Cuba and its readiness to initiate hostilities or engage in paramilitary activities. This information also will assist in establishing the magnitude of the Bloc effort to provide specific types of military equipment to non-Bloc countries.

2048 All possible information on deck cargo is desired, including the number and size of items on deck, with as complete a description as possible (See illustrations).

2049 Name of ship. Date and port of arrival. Any indication of size of shipment (e.g., length of time for unloading, number of stevedores employed in unloading, number and size of convoys seen leaving port area, equipment dumps on or near the pier after unloading). Description of any item of material observed being off loaded, stored on pier, or being transported from the port area.

Planning

2050 Defense mobilization plans, e.g., against an invasion. Plans to arm civilians, for example.

2051 Any evidence of defense build-ups around possible invasion sites.

2052 Any indications of targeting against marshalling areas in the U.S. or elsewhere in the Western Hemisphere.

Security Organizations and Functions (See Section 1000, paras 1051-1113

2055 Details on the present organization and personalities of the Department for State Security (DSS), Ministry for the Interior. Emphasis should be placed on identification of former G-2 MINFAR personnel, the degree of coordination between DSS and military security intelligence elements, and degree of authority enjoyed by DSS within the military establishment.

2056 Details on the intelligence and security functions of the National Revolutionary Militia, with emphasis on the antisabotage activities of plant militia units, organization and control of Committees for Revolutionary Vigilance, and the training of intelligence or guerrilla personnel for missions outside Cuba.

2057 Degree of influence and the methods used by Communist or Sinc/Soviet advisory personnel within the military establishment.

General Questions on Cuban Navy:

2058 What is the present organizational structure of the Cuban Navy? Describe in detail functions of each component of the organization.

2059 What is the operating doctrine of the Cuban Navy with regard to inshore and offshore patrolling? Describe ships used, times of patrols, geographic areas of patrol and effectiveness of patrols.

2060 What is the material condition of Cuban Naval vessels?

2061 How effective is the Cuban Naval maintenance and repair program? Describe details of the program pointing out; strength and weakness of the program.

General Questions on Cuban Navy (Continued)

- h. Medicinal stores

2073 List potential or critical shortages which may affect logistic levels.

2074 What are the quantities of POL stocks on hand or available on reporting date? List designators of various types of POL products.

2075 What is the Cuban Naval intelligence organization ashore and afloat? Describe.

2076 What is the relation of naval intelligence to the other Cuban intelligence activities? Describe.

2077 Is there a training school for naval intelligence personnel? Describe.

2078 To what extent are bloc personnel engaged in intelligence activities? Training?

2079 What counterintelligence practices are utilized by the navy? Discuss.

2080 What are the operational frequencies for Navy communications?

Cryptographic Communications

- 2081 Have you ever had any experience in government (diplomatic, military or intelligence) communication or cryptographic activity? If so, describe.
- 2082 Tell what you can of the size, organization, and personnel of any government communications or cryptographic facility with which you are familiar.
- 2083 To your knowledge, what government organizations employ cryptographic materials or secret radio communications?
- 2084 Have you ever visited a radio or cryptographic installation of your government? If so, describe its location, appearance, equipment, antennas, and other details which you may remember.
- 2085 Can you identify any persons known or believed to be in secret communications work?
- 2086 Are you familiar with any cipher materials, including devices of any kind, such as machines? If so, describe each and draw such internal and/or external diagrams as you can.
- 2087 At the time of your coming over to the United States, did you have any crypto or communications material in your possession? If so, what were they? What happened to them? Do you know where they are now?
- 2088 What knowledge do you have about the security regulations for physical custody, transportation, and destruction of code and cipher materials?
- 2089 Are you familiar with any type of voice secrecy or scrambler device? If so, describe and identify users.
- 2090 What knowledge do you have of government microwave facilities?
- 2091 Do you have any knowledge of computer development, production, or usage in your country?
- 2092 Do you know anything of the radio intelligence activities of your government? If so, describe in detail, particularly including locations of installations and identification of personnel.

III. Economic

3000 ECONOMIC

There is a continuing interest in the economy of Cuba, its current nature and character, its basic human and material resources, and the means by which the Castro regime hopes to achieve the progress promised to the Cuban people.

There is within the foregoing, a particular concern with establishing the general parameters of the Cuban economy's growth, composition changes, quality level, and competence of the human resources, the adequancy of the existing economic plant and facilities. There is concurrently a concern with the dependence of the Castro regime upon outside sources for technical and planning knowhow, raw materials for semi-finished and finished manufactures, and transportation, as well as for assistance in military training, weaponry, equipment, doctrines and leadership.

In short, there is an urgent concern with evidences of any significant failure of the Castro regime to meet its minimum economic goals. There is an equally urgent concern with evidences that Cuba is being developed into a base from which military, subversive or economic thrusts can be mounted against other countries.

This Section contains broad problem definitions as well as more pointed questions. Both should be used as lead-ins for obtaining further relevant information according to source knowledgeability.

Economic Planning and Programs

National Planning

National planning is the Castro regime's main management tool for achieving the economic growth necessary to meet internal needs and possibly to undertake adventures outside Cuba. The following represent broad categories of information which will provide insight into the methods and effectiveness of this important arm of the regime.

- 3001 Describe planning institutions and the planning process (including development of multi-year plans):
- a. Information on the identification, organizational structure and location of most important national planning bodies; what are the responsibilities of each?
- b. Biographic information on most important planning officials:
- c. Procedures used in plan formulation and dissemination (national, provincial, and local levels)
- d. Basic concepts, principles, and objectives in the planning process.

SECRET

3002 With respect to the Economic Plan for 1962:

- a. Proposed "National Product" for 1962 was announced as $5.8 billion less "Expenses" of $2.6 billion leaving "New Value To Be Created" $3.2 billion. What items in the national accounts are included under "Expenses"?
- b. What is the composition of either "National Product" or "New Value To Be Created" in terms of each sector of the economy, i.e., how much would be produced by agriculture, industry, transportation, services, commerce, and government?
- c. The Plan gives a breakdown of investment expenditures by sector, agriculture, industry, etc. Within these broad sectors how will investment expenditure be allocated?
- d. There have been reports that the 1962 Plan has already been abandoned. Is there any foundation for such reports? If the plan has been abandoned, Why?
- e. Force or authority of actions taken to implement plans at various levels in the nation

Economic Growth

The overall rate of economic growth, and the growth in particular sectors of the economy, are very important. Ideally, quantified or statistical data, such as those maintained in top-level government bureaus are desired. If not available, detailed knowledge from a single source will be useful. The following section is designed for sources having access to quantified or statistical data. For sources having limited knowledge, details of personal experience should be obtained which can be aggregated toward the needed statistical level.

3003 With respect to the period since the overthrow of Batista, describe and quantify statistically where possible the actual performance of the Cuban economy in the following sectors:

- a. agricultural production
- b. consumer goods production

Economic Growth (Continued)

- c. heavy industry production
- d. industrial construction
- e. housing construction

3004 With respect to the economic sectors listed under a., above describe and quantify statistically where possible regime plans for future growth.

3005 Enumerate and comment upon those positive factors which will assist the regime in implementing its economic programs.

3006 Enumerate and comment upon those problems, bottlenecks, and vulnerabilities which will impede the regime in implementing its economic plans.

Economic Control Structure

3007 Describe the methods and organizations through which economic controls are exercised from the national down to the local level (such as the recent regulation requiring that all business transactions be handled through the Cuban National Bank.)

3008 Describe the effectiveness of the economic control structure in terms of the regime's objectives.

Domestic Finance

Overall understanding of the Cuban financial situation is an important element in assessing future weaknesses of the Castro regime, and conversely, future capabilities for external actions. There is a continuing interest in the following kinds of aggregated information.

3009 Provide monetary totals and breakdowns on the following categories (for any year or series of years beginning with 1959 and including any plans for future years):

a. national economic aggregates, e.g., gross national product, national income, capital investment, personal expenditures

Domestic Finance (Continued)

- b. government budget, including breakdown of major expenditure and revenue categories, especially the following:
 - 1. personal income tax receipts
 - 2. indirect or turnover tax receipts
 - 3. profit tax receipts
 - 4. defense expenditures
 - 5. capital investment expenditures
 - 6. other industrial and agricultural expenditures
- 3010 Evaluate the effectiveness of current policy and programs in terms of the regime's objectives.
- 3011 With respect to total capital investment in the Cuban economy, quantify and comment upon:
- a. actual and planned volume of investment in monetary terms
 - b. actual and planned rate of growth
- c. the relative shares of capital investment allocated to the various sectors of the economy (e.g., heavy and capital goods industries, consumer goods industries, agriculture, housing)
 - d. the value and importance of foreign private investment.

Foreign Trade

General knowledge of Cuban foreign trade, the prices paid, the commodities bought and sold, provides valuable insight into the Castro regime's dependence upon outside sources. Its capabilities to utilize these outside sources in meeting internal needs, its methods and success in doing so through normal commercial activities is of urgent and continuing interest.

Prices

3012 How do prices of goods imported by Cuba from the Sino-Soviet Bloc compare with prices of similar goods from Free World countries?

3013 Have Bloc prices for exports to Cuba remained about the same since trade began to expand in 1960 or have prices tended to rise? (Specifically, it is desired to determine whether or not the USSR and other Bloc countries increased export prices to Cuba after the beginning of 1961 to compensate for the premium price these countries began to pay for Cuban sugar).

3014 What prices do the Bloc countries pay for specific goods? (Price information, if it is to be of much use, must identify the commodity with some detail. Bulk commodities such as wheat, coal, rice, etc., are not a problem but machinery should be identified in terms of size, weight, horsepower, and output capacity or, whenever possible, by model number and by the factory or organization that produced it. POL products also should be specifically identified in terms of crude, fuel oil, gasoline, etc. Price information of any kind is of great interest but price information on machinery and vehicles is of particular interest).

Commodities

Detailed knowledge on the kinds, amounts, adequacies and deficiencies of Cuban commodity imports is of urgent and continuing interest. Information about special handling, out-of-line prices, unusual priority, and the like provide additional insight into difficulties, vulnerabilities and deficiencies of the Castro regime.

3015 Have Bloc goods imported by Cuba been satisfactory or have they been poorly suited to Cuba's needs? In the case of the latter, specifically which goods and commodities have been unsatisfactory?

3016 Is Cuba importing raw materials in quantities adequate to maintain normal industrial production?

3017 What imported raw materials are in short supply?

3018 What industries or key plants are affected by shortages of imported raw materials? Where are these industries and plants located? What has been the specific impact of such shortages?

Commodities (Continued)

- 3019 What Cuban industries import semi-finished goods for further processing?
- a. What key plants are involved and what are their locations?
- b. Are these facilities still able to obtain adequate supplies of the semi-finished products they need?
- c. Which Plants have been affected by shortages of imported semi-fabricates? Where are they located? What has been the specific impact of such shortages?
- 3020 Is the supply of imported fuels adequate to meet industrial and other needs?
- 3021 Has the import of capital goods increased or decreased under the Castro regime?
- 3022 In monetary and/or percentage terms, what is the composition of capital goods imports (i.e., by product classes such as industrial, agricultural, transport, construction materials and machinery, telecommunications equipment).
- 3023 Does the Cuban government have any plans to reduce further the import of foods and other consumer goods in order to increase the import of raw materials, capital goods, and fuels?

Exports from Cuba may provide additional understanding of prospects for the Castro regime to call upon external resources to meet its internal commitments and obligations to the Cuban people. Trends in these exports, difficulties in delivery, unexpected fluctuations in price, and similar developments may provide urgently needed advance notice of difficulties for the Castro regime.

3024 Cuban exports of sugar, tobacco and minerals have been maintained at fairly normal rates since Castro came to power. On the other hand exports of fruits, vegetables, fish, fibers, and textiles have declined sharply even though there is no US embargo on these products. Which among the following are the basic factors in this decline:

- a. reduced foreign demand for the product concerned?
- b. reduced production of these products in Cuba?
- c. increased consumption in Cuba of commodities formerly exported?
 - d. increased competition from other exporting countries?
- 3025 Is Cuba making an effort to increase its exports to Free World countries?
- a. What difficulties are being encountered in this effort?
- b. What commodities is Cuba trying to export to the West in larger quantities?
- 3026 For any year or series of years beginning with 1960 and including plans for future years, describe Cuba's trade with any Bloc country in the following terms:
 - a. commodity composition of Cuba's exports
 - b. commodity composition of Cuba's imports
 - c. monetary value of Cuba's imports
 - d. monetary value of Cuba's exports
 - e. methods and arrangements used to settle imbalances

U.S. Trade Embargo

3027 What U.S.-origin commodities is Cuba obtaining in contravention of the U.S. export embargo? What techniques and channels are used in their procurement? Can specific cases be cited with details as to commodity description, dates of shipment, names of vessels, names of firms and individuals responsible for shipments?

3028 Can specific cases be cited of damage to the Cuban economy resulting from the U.S. export embargo? Can critical shortages of commodities be identified?

U.S. Trade Embargo (Continued)

3029 Is there any evidence that the U.S. import embargo is being circumvented by exports of Cuban goods to the U.S. through third countries?

International Finance

Convertible Currencies

This subject is a highly specified aspect of the Cuban foreign trade situation knowledge of which may provide advance notice of either unusual difficulties or successes by the Castro regime. Particular aspects of continuing interest include convertability of currency received for Cuban exports, special trade agreements, and Cuba's foreign exchange reserves.

- 3030 Is Communist China still paying for some of its sugar imports from Cuba with convertible currency? What portion of the sugar imports are paid for in convertible currency?
- 3031 In the trade agreement of February 13, 1960 between Cuba and the USSR, the Soviets agreed to purchase one million tons of sugar annually at world market prices. They further agreed to pay for 20 percent of the sugar imports with convertible currency. Subsequently, the amount of sugar to be purchased was increased and the price was also increased to 4 cents per pound.
- a. Has the agreement to pay for 20 percent of imports in hard currency also been extended to cover all sugar imports or does it still apply only to one million tons?
- b. How much convertible currency did the USSR pay to Cuba in 1960? In 1961?
- 3032 What is the current level of Cuba's convertible currency reserves? How much of this is held in Canada? London? Switzerland? In what other banks is it held?
- 3033 What is the current level of Cuba's total foreign exchange reserve (convertible currency and clearing balances)?

Convertible Currencies (Continued)

3034 Does Cuba still have any long term loans outstanding with any Free World banks or other financial institutions? What is the amount of these loans? Were any new loans negotiated in 1960 or 1961? Is Cuba attempting to negotiate any new loans in western financial markets?

Nonconvertible Currency

3035 With respect to nonconvertible financing, what is the current balance in Cuba's clearing account with:

- a. the USSR?
- b. Communist China?
- c. each of the European Satellites?

Arms Payments

Cuban payment for arms, the methods and terms of same constitute a special aspect of the Cuban foreign exchange problem. Of particular interest would be unusually lenient terms for payments, special discounts, debt forgiveness or discount, or the fact that special treatment was extended by the seller.

3036 Have any arms been given to Cuba on a grant basis requiring no repayment?

3037 Have arms been sold on a credit basis?

- a. If so, what are the credit terms?
- b. How long is the repayment period?
- c. What is the rate of interest charged?
 - d. What is the size, if any, of the down payment?

3038 What is the annual amount of Cuba's payment to the Soviet Bloc for current and past arm's shipments?

- a. How much of the payment is made with clearing balances?
- b. How much of the payment is made with convertible currency?
- c. How much of the payment goes to the USSR and how much to Czechoslovakia?
- d. Are any arms payments made to any other Bloc country?
- 3039 How are arms shipments to Cuba priced? Are prices based on original cost less depreciation? Are discounts given? If so, how large? Are prices based on the cost of comparable western equipment?

Multilateral Payments Agreement

Multilateral exchange agreements represent another special aspect of the Cuban foreign exchange problem. In effect, such agreements permit greater flexibility to the Castro regime in meeting its external commitments, or extending same. There is a sustained interest in developments in this subject.

3040 At the end of 1961, Cuba and several Soviet Bloc countries signed an agreement by which clearing balances earned by Cuba through exports to one Bloc country could be used to finance imports from one of the other countries participating in the agreement. The following questions concern the agreement.

- a. What are the details of the agreement?
- b. Enumerate the countries involved?
- c. Has the agreement been operating effectively?
- d. To what extent has Cuba used clearing balances in the USSR to finance imports from Czechoslovakia or other Satellites?

Miscellaneous

3041 What is the annual expenditure made by Cuba for propaganda and subversion activity in other Latin American countries?

3042 To what extent do these expenditures require convertible currencies?

3043 In what proportions are these expenditures allocated to:

- a. training of guerilla forces?
- b. purchase of arms?
- c. printed material?
- d. other?

3044 What is Cuba's annual expenditure for the travel of official and unofficial delegations to the Bloc and elsewhere?

3045 How much of these expenditures require payments in convertible currency?

Bloc Economic Aid

Bloc economic aid to Cuba, in any one of its many forms represents a support to the Castro regime. The scale, scope, character and general direction of this aid is of utmost importance in assessing the Castro regime's chances for meeting both its long-term and short-term commitments. Of particular interest is Bloc aid channelled toward industrializations, agrarian improvements, technical services connected with the foregoing, as well as grants, interest free loans, regular commercial loans, and the like. The following items outline broad avenues for inquiry, as well as particular interests along the way.

Industrialization (See also questions on Industry, beginning page 46).

Industrial development of Cuba, its rate, pace and direction over both the short and the long-term provides another means of measuring the Castro regimes prospects and vulnerabilities. There is continuing interest in the specifics of this general economic field, such as, general planning, construction scheduled, progress on construction, production planned for, and the like.

- 3046 Identify and locate all industrial facilities and projects completed or under construction in Cuba on the basis of assistance from Bloc countries. (Identify the Bloc country providing the assistance). Where possible, locate not only by city but also by what section of the city and near what prominent landmarks.
- 3047 What portion of the total cost of any project is accounted for by foreign exchange costs, i.e., cost incurred through the necessity of importing materials, equipment, and outside technical assistance?
- 3048 What is the nature of the Bloc aid, i.e., direct grant, credit, technical assistance; extent of cost covered by Bloc financial aid, i.e., entire cost or only foreign exchange portion of cost?
- 3049 For all projects where credit is involved, what are the repayment terms and interest rate?
- 3050 Specific projects Using the above guidance and the questions in
- a. The steel plant is to be built in Cuba by the USSR. Is it planned as an integrated steel combine or as a rolling mill only?
- b. The projected oil refinery at Santiago, also being built through Soviet assistance.
- c. The shipbuilding yard at Mariel and the ship-repair yard at Havana to be built with Polish assistance.

Soviet Bloc Technical Assistance

Information about technical assistance from the Bloc, its general character and scope, as well as answers to the specifics outlined below provide still another approach to assessing the Castro regime's prospects for success or failure. The general plans, their execution and changes in these, are of continuing interest.

- a. Name and nationality
- b. Status (civilian or military; if the latter, give rank)
 - c. Duties (economic or military)

3054 How long have technicians been in area familiar to source? What are the technicians' next destinations?

3055 How are the technicians activities coordinated?

3056 With what Cuban nationals do the technicians work? Do they appear to have equal, less or more command than their Cuban contacts in determining action on various subjects?

3057 With whom did the technicians communicate and by what means?

3058 What method is used for paying technicians (i.e., paid out of credits granted by Bloc countries or out of clearing balances earned by exports to Bloc countries).

3059 With respect to Cubans sent to Bloc countries for training, comment on the following:

- a. total number of Cuban trainees in Bloc countries
- b. breakdown between military, industrial, and academic trainees
- c. How is this training financed and what are the total annual costs of such training?

Industry

Information about the degree of government control over Cuban industry, and data on the success of these controls, is of continuing interest.

General

- 3060 Describe government control over industry at national, provincial, and local levels through:
 - a. organizations
 - b. budget
 - c. allocation of resources, equipment, manpower, etc.
- 3061 Discuss effect on Cuban industrial activity of US embargo on shipments to Cuba. In particular, identify and describe most important problems, shortages and bottlenecks in industry confronting the regime.

The following questions could be asked of any source:

- 3062 What are the major large industries in your area?
- 3063 At what capabilities do these industries seem to be running?
- 3064 Are there any notable shortages which seem to be crippling these industries?
